Superintendent of Schools

December 16, 2020

To All BASD Families,

Last evening I received a letter written by a superintendent from West Virginia about the first snow storm of the year. He eloquently wrote about the significance of each season and how those memories play a vital role in a child's life. We all have had to endure many stressful changes in our daily routines the past 9 months and have not had time to appreciate the wonderful things that come with the change of seasons. Therefore, today we will have an early dismissal and stop instruction at 12:00 today. I am asking that all students and staff take the time this afternoon to let go of all of your stress and anxieties, and enjoy the excitement that comes with the first snowstorm of the year. Go outside, play in the snow, make snow angels or snowmen (keep them 6 feet apart), but most of all enjoy the moment.

We will resume remote learning tomorrow morning, enjoy the day, stay safe, and stay healthy.

Sincerely,

Dr. Keith Hartbauer
